Top athletics program in each state and the District of Columbia

Story Highlights

Hamilton (Chandler, Ariz.) collected a title in football and runner-up in baseball
 Regis (Aurora, Colo) won hockey (boys) and basketball (boys and girls) titles

Whether it's school size or the depth of the regional talent pool, not all state champions are created equally.

After sifting through state tournament results for the 2008-09 school year, contacting athletic directors from top programs, examining all-around success rates as well as weighing the importance of producing star athletes and teams that excelled on the national level, SI.com has assembled a list of the top high school athletic program in each of the 50 states, plus the District of Columbia.
